SENATOR KENYON SAYS NEWBERRY'S SEAT WAS PURCHASED

Senator William S. Kenyon of Iowa, the leader by the right of ability of the western group of Progressive Republican Senators, in a speech supplementing the great deliverances of Senators Pomerene (Dem., Ohio) and Walsh (Dem., Mont.), disclosed a new factor in the Newberry senatorial case when he asserted that the social lobby had been active in behalf of Senator Newberry.

This means, of course, that the Newberry supporters have exhausted the last efforts to bottle up his case by what may be called the plea of the petticoats. By invoking the aid of the feminine sex in this case, the inevitable comparison is raised of a male offender hiding behind a woman's skirts. After reviewing the law bearing upon the case and presenting some of the major facts, Senator Kenyon made this summary:

"I assert that under the record the following conclusions can reasonably safely and legitimately be drawn:

"That the committee expended approximately $250,000.

"That the committee violated the Federal Statute and the statutes of Michigan, and that such action entered into the election through the primary.

"That the committee was not a voluntary committee. It was picked by Mr. Newberry.

"That Mr. Newberry was responsible for the acts of the committee, and that the agency of Cody and King is established beyond question, and he would be responsible in a civil action for debts contracted by them in the campaign.

"That Mr. Newberry knew about the campaign, financially and otherwise, and knew of most of the expenditures of the campaign.

"That a part of the money spent in the campaign was actually the money of Mr. Newberry.

Denying that the Newberry case is any test of Republicanism, Senator Kenyon says:

"It is an insult to the Republican party to claim that a vote on this question is a test of Republicanism. It is an insult to the millions of Republicans throughout the country to maintain that the majority in this body must be maintained through corrupt elections.

BOLL WEevil DESTROYS COTTON IN GEORGIA

J. R. Harp has returned from a visit to relatives at Inman, Georgia, and states that the cotton industry in that state has been almost put out of commission by the boll weevil. That the farmers did not make enough money on cotton this last year to pay their expenses. He says they are turning their energies to raising wheat and oats and pepper; that a living may be made that way but not as much money as was formerly made off cotton when the boll weevil let it alone. The agricultural loans to farmers is not helping matters any, according to Mr. Harp, as the farmers do not see a cent of the money and the only benefit to be derived is taken advantage of by the banks and they do not pass it along to the farmers. Business in Georgia is in worse condition than in this section.

HOW ABOUT YOUR WIFE?

Do you expect her to keep your house in order and remain fresh and fair unless her dressing table is properly appointed?

Do you want her to wrish her lovely hair on torturing metal hanks each night for the sake of a few dubious curls in the morning when an Electric Curling Iron will secure these curls as well as a good night's rest?
